

DESTINATION

The existing warehouse is transformed into a home-away-from-home for the research and development team. Large windows are inserted into the facade to introduce natural light and create a sense of place. The interior environment provides a warm contrast to the straightforward metal box.